SOUTHERN COAL PIT HEADS SIGN UP WITH LEWIS

Mine Chief's Victory Made Grand Slam by Latest Capitulation.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 9—The Southern Coal Producers Association announced today it will accept the new soft coal wage contract, already signed by 75 per cent of the industry.

• • •

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 9 — The odds lengthened today that John L. Lewis would play his new, ace-studded contract into a grand slam.

With 75 per cent of the soft coal industry signed up for work and shooting at full production by tomorrow, southern operators still held out against the unprecedented wage pact signed yesterday by most northern and western producers.

The Southern Coal Producers association prepared to make its "final decision" at a 1 p. m. meeting today. Most of its 100,000 workers are idle.

Federal labor officials conceded it would be difficult for the south to hold out alone, with the rest of the country producing and selling coal—at a price perhaps 70 cents to $1 a ton higher than before.

Lewis Proclaims Confidence

Lewis proclaimed his own certainty of the outcome.

It is "reasonable to assume," he said, after telling reporters of the United Mine Workers' fat contract gains, that the rest of the industry will sign up in a few days.

He indicated a resolve to smash the southern association, his bitterest industry antagonist in recent years.

Besides the unprecedented concessions, the contract points a loaded gun right at the southern group.

This is the next-to-last clause which provides that every signer agrees to meet in a national conference before the contract expires next June 30.

Thus, any southern operator who signs obligates himself to collaborate with the rest of the industry in next year's bargaining.

Will Face Same Situation

If the southerners fail to participate in such a meeting, the clause implies, they will find themselves faced with this year's situation all over again—in other words, invited to sign a "national" contract which they had no part in negotiating.

The contract was negotiated by the northern Appalachian operators and "captive" producers, the mines whose entire output goes into steel making.

It became clear that coal and steel consumers would pay much of the higher wage bill. Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) forecast that coal prices will jump 70 cents a ton and steel prices $1.10. Some bituminous producers estimated the coal increase at $1 a ton and in a few mines as much as $1.25.

In Cleveland, President Charles M. White of Republic Steel Corporation said he does not see how steel prices can be held at present levels.

Satisfied Miners Troop Back To Pits with Best Contract

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 9—Satisfied AFL-United Mine Workers, voicing approval of "the best work and wage terms we ever had," went back into the mines today just as fast as union locals met officially to approve the new contract.

The back-to-work movement got under way last night in the top coal-producing states of West Virginia and Pennsylvania with thousands of miners hoisting picks and shovels after a 10-day paid vacation.

UMW leaders predicted the bulk of the 300,000 miners covered in the agreement would be digging coal today.

The full number was not expected before Thursday because of difficulties in contacting vacationing miners and in getting the pits in order after the long layoff.

Will Accept Eagerly

Many mine locals delayed ratification meetings until today but there was no doubt the miners would eagerly accept the contract.

The miners who before their vacation got $11.85 for a nine-hour day now will get $13.05 for an eight-hour day. By absorbing former overtime rates for two of those nine hours, the new terms hike the basic hourly pay 44½ cents—from $1.18½ to $1.63.

The new contract marks work renewal under private operation for the first time in more than a year. The government had run the mines since a 59-day strike in May, 1946.

Reopening in western Pennsylvania were the "captive" mines whose entire output goes to the steel industry. These included pits of U. S. Steel Corp., which first recommended acceptance of the coal agreement, and those of Republic Steel and Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp.

20,000 Laid Off

Coal shortages resulting from the mine vacation and a previous "protest" strike against the Taft-Hartley labor legislation had forced the layoff of 14,000 steelworkers and another 6,000 railroad workers.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., largest operating subsidiary of U. S. Steel had 20 of its 28 blast furnaces operating in the Pittsburgh area and recalled 7,500 of its 10,000 furloughed workers.

Roar of Mines Being Worked Returns to Ohio

By The Associated Press

BELLAIRE, O., July 9—The roar of underground machinery and the "clank" of steel against coal resumed in Ohio today as the majority of the state's miners trooped happily back to their jobs.

Approximately 14,000 of the 16,000 miners in the eastern Ohio field were at work this morning and the remainder were expected this afternoon.

Those not at work were awaiting the signing of contracts.

SENATE SPEEDS ACTION ON TAX

Finance Committee Approves Version Passed by House Yesterday.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, July 9 — The senate finance committe voted 10 to 3 today to approve the house-passed Republican tax reduction bill now in its second trip through congress.

The committee quickly approved the measure in a session lasting less than an hour.

The three dissenting votes to the bill pased by the house yesterday, were cast by Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic Whip Scott W Lucas, of Illinois and Sen. Tom Connally, D., Tex.

Offers Substitute

Before the final vote, Lucas offered a substitute bill which proposed greater relief for the lower income tax brackets than the Republican bill. It was rejected by the same 10 to 3 lineup.

The Republican bill, which the house approved by a vote of 302 to 112, calls for personal income tax cuts ranging from 30 per cent for individuals earning taxable income up to $1,000 down to 10.5 per cent for those earning more than $302,400.

The bill, making its second swing around the congressional circuit, was slated to go to the senate floor tomorrow and to be approved by the upper chamber not later than Tuesday of next week. That would give President Truman 10 days to act on it and still permit congress to adjourn as scheduled July 26.

More Votes Than Needed

The house okayed the legislation yesterday by a vote of 302 to 112—26 votes more than the two-thirds majority necessary to override an anticipated veto.

The measure is identical to the one President Truman vetoed last month, except that the effective

SENATOR SAYS FILES FILCHED IN NEW MEXICO

"Didn't Get Into Unauthorized Hands, However," Chamber Assured.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 9—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) told the senate today secret files were stolen from the Los Alamos (N.M.) atomic energy testing grounds, but said he has "no reason to believe" they fell into unauthorized hands.

Hickenlooper, chairman of joint senate-house atomic committee, said "the atomic energy commission did report to the joint committee that there were certain missing atomic energy files at the Los Alamos project in New Mexico."

He said the incident occurred when two army sergeants took the documents with them when they were demobilized.

"Fully Recovered"

The FBI was notified at once, he said, and promptly located the two men and "the documents were as we believe completely and fully recovered."

They had been held in the private files of the two men, whom he characterized as "souvenir hunters." The joint committee believes, Hickenlooper said, "there was no effective breach of security."

"We have no information that any unauthorized persons did see these documents other than the two army sergeants," he said, adding that the justice department is still investigating. He added:

"The joint committee, the federal bureau of investigation, the military and naval establishments are all keenly aware of the transcendental importance of the security of the facilities of the atomic energy commission."

Denies Oak Ridge Report

Hickenlooper told his colleagues the committee has no reason to believe published reports that files have been stolen from the Oak Ridge (Tenn) project.

The New York Sun, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau reported today that highly secret data on the atomic bomb had been stolen by unidentified agents working from within the Oak Ridge plant.

(In Washington, Charles Ross, press secretary to President Truman, said in response to inquiries and after checking personally with the President: "The White House has heard nothing about it." Ross added that he thought it would be "very strange" if such a thing had occurred and the President was not notified.

(The atomic energy commission replied to inquiries through its public relations office by saying the commission was investigating the story. The FBI was advised of the story by its New York office, but it had no immediate comment).

May Rival Canada

The Sun said its informants predicted that full details, when disclosed, would rival the Canadian atom bomb spy story, and that disclosure of the thefts was expected to result in a total reorganization of the nation's atomic energy setup.

"FBI agents and security police who replaced the highly trained military security agents guarding Oak Ridge during the war," the Sun said, "are on this account confident that grounds and the laboratories of the project are thoroughly safe."

DROP IN FOOD PRICES SEEN

Executive Predicts 15 Per Cent Decrease by Harvest Time in 1948.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 9—Clarence Francis, chairman of the board of General Foods Corp., predicted today that average food prices may be down "as much as 15 per cent" by harvest time in 1948.

Francis made no specific forecast as to what may happen to prices in the meantime.

But the United States Chamber of Commerce in another statement prepared for the joint congressional committee on the economic report declared that if the Marshall plan for rehabilitation of Europe goes into effect it is "likely to involve a very considerable upward pressure of many commodities."

And before the committee convened, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), a member, told a reporter that the key to stabilization of America's economy is the rehabilitation of Europe and Asia.

Francis told the committee he believes a "corrective" in food prices is under way and that "the average prices paid for food by domestic consumers may be as much as 15 per cent lower by the time the harvests of 1948 are gathered," he added:

"By this I don't mean to imply anything like a wide open break in prices. Such a break would probably occur only in a depression x x x and we don't foresee anything as drastic as that."

In citing reasons for his prediction that food prices will slide, Francis said that food lately has been "getting more than its usual share of the consumer dollar."

"We regard that as a warning signal," he declared. "To us it means that food is in for stiff competition from new automobiles, appliances and housing. In fact, the competition has begun and higher rents may have some further effect."

ROMANIA REJECTS AID EUROPE PARLEY

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 9 — Romania rejected today the British-French invitation to a Paris conference on the Marshall aid-to-Europe proposal, and became the second nation in the Russian sphere to decline the bid. Bulgaria's rejection came late last night.

In Moscow, meanwhile, the Soviet press made no mention today of the conference, which will open in Paris Saturday.

The Oslo newspaper Aftenposten reported that Norway had decided upon participation.

Britain and France last Thursday invited 22 other nations to meet with them with a view to setting up committees for a survey of Europe's needs and resources.

Committee findings would be reported to the United States in line with Secretary of State George C. Marshall's June 5 offer of American aid in a common European reconstruction effort.

The invitations were issued a day after Russia had turned down plans to join Britain and France in sponsoring the parley.

"Duel" with Shotguns Leads 2 Men to Court

The aftermath of a shooting affray in which two Marion men blasted away at each other in a "duel" with shotguns was heard in municipal court this morning.

The two principals, Peter Boulton, 22, of 752 Creston avenue, and Hazel Fair, 33, of 874 Kenton avenue, were arraigned on charges of "firing a gun with malicious intent."

The shooting took place, police said, at the rear of the Fair home July 5.

The fracas which led to the shooting started at Fair's home, police said, while Fair, Boulton and an unnamed man, all Negroes, were visiting. Police said the unnamed man accused Boulton of taking his money. Boulton drew a knife, police reported, and Fair ordered Boulton to leave the house. Boulton left, saying he was going to get his gun and shoot Fair, police said.

Boulton returned later and fired a shotgun at Fair from the alley about 150 feet away, but missed. Fair went into the house and got his shotgun and fired at Boulton. Several pellets were taken from his abdomen and right arm at the City hospital.

Police were called into the case when Boulton was taken to the hospital and authorities there notified the police. The police then went to Fair's home and arrested him on investigation at 8:53 p. m. Saturday.

Boulton was arrested at the hospital when he was released today.

When arraigned in court Boulton pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs. Fair, claiming self defense, pleaded not guilty.

2 Hurt in Sports Events Land In Hospital Together

Two contenders in separate Marion sports events last night were injured and each landed in City hospital with a broken leg. Admitted about an hour apart, they were placed in the same room.

E. D. Fellmeth of 337 Girard avenue, an employe of Standard Oil Co. and player on the softball team sponsored by the company, suffered a broken left leg at approximately 7:30 last night when he collided with the catcher of the opposing team after scoring a run in the last half of the sixth inning. The Standard Oil team was playing McAllister's of Marion at Crystal Lake park diamond.

The second sports casualty occurred at the Marion race trask when Henry Nehlig of Janesville, Wis. suffered a broken ankle when he was thrown from his sulky and dragged in the sixth race last night, in the daily harness racing meet at the fairgrounds. Details of Mr. Nehlig's accident will be found on the sport's page today.

Mr. Fellmeth had been asked to fill in last night because the team was short of players and was making his first trip to bat. He usually plays first base or right field but was only serving as pinch-hitter last night, when the accident occurred.

The game score which stood 8 to 3 when Mr. Fellmeth was injured finally ended with a tie score 8 to 8.

Mr. Fellmeth's leg was injured just below the knee cap. Mr. Nehlig sustained a double break of the right ankle bones.

G.O.P. Drives To Pass Bill Changing Succession

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 9—G.O.P. leaders hope to complete congressional action by nightfall on a bill designating the speaker of the house, now a Republican, as Chief Executive in the event President Truman should fail to serve out his present term.

House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana announced plans to call up the senate-passed bill creating a new line of succession but in effect stopping the line with the speaker.

Since Mr. Truman himself has requested the legislation and a Democratic-controlled house passed it last year, Halleck expected no difficulty readying it for the President's signature without delay.

Overturned Car Lands Upright in Garden

Landing upright in a garden after his auto overturned was the experience yesterday of Paul L. Wilson, 23, of near Marion. While going south on Park Boulevard at 1:42 p. m. he attempted to make a turn onto McKinley avenue when the car got out of control. The car rolled over several times before it landed in the garden about 100 feet away, the police reported. The car was damaged over the entire body and the garden was torn up, but the driver was uninjured. Wilson was arrested on a reckless driving charge and pleaded not guilty at a hearing in municipal court this morning. He will have a hearing tomorrow.

Lewis Has Nails Polished Often But Eyebrows Clipped—NEVER

By DOROTHY WILLIAMS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9 — John L Lewis gets his fingernails clipped and polished regularly ($1), but his eyebrows NEVER.

Furthermore, according to the proprietors of his two favorite barbershops, he likes his fingernails buffed to a nice sheen. But no liquid polish.

Usually he tips the manicurist from two bits to a half a dollar (with little conversation) and the barber slightly more (with some casual talk when spoken to) for a $1 haircut and $1 shampoo

Both barbers laugh off reports that the eyebrows of the United Mine Workers boss are thinning out They agree the famous brows may be a little grayer But no less bushy.

But long ago they learned to skip the eyebrows with both words and scissors

Alphonso Peluso manager of the Investment Building barber shop, said he learned to by-pass the brows at least five years ago, when Lewis waved aside his first trimming suggestion

"He's as stubborn as his eyebrows," Peluso, a smooth-browed man, said "And his beard is just as tough as he is"

Both Peluso and Carmine Oddone manager of the Carlton hotel barber shop, said Lewis was an easy and good-tipping customer, who dropped in without an appointment, about every 10 days, waited his turn without complaint and talked little Their employes told the same story

Comments Sometimes

They said he sometimes, in reply to a question, commented on news of the day, including labor issues

"I'm not going to tell you what he said, but he didn't expect that court case to turn out the way it did," Peluso said Peluso referred to the famous federal court decision that Lewis committed contempt of court by his failure to order his miners back to work last winter.

Oddone commented on Lewis humor He recalled an incident when he went to a Washington hospital where Lewis was recovering from an appendectomy last year

'A nurse, who was pulling on his socks, told him he had cold feet,' Oddone said "He told her that he had a national reputation for cold feet'"

Writes Mash Note

Mrs Cecile Veirregger, manicurist in Peluso's shop, said Lewis had the hands of "a man who has worked hard in his life" Later she handed this reporter her comments pencilled in longhand

"Asks for his nails very short and NO polish," the frequently underscored note read "NOTHING flashy about him Is very nice to the people who work on him

'Does not talk much — impresses you as a man who doesn't waste words unless he has SOMETHING to say Has strong capable hands Looks as if he were equally as capable of working with his men as for their interests

'As a customer he is very nice person I wish I had more like him'

Galion Council To Study Power Need

Special to The Star

GALION, July 9 — With two resolutions by as many civic clubs of Galion in the hands of Otto Pfeifer, city council president, asking council to take immediate action to secure supplementary electric power from an outside source, a special meeting of council will probably be called for Thursday night, Pfeifer said today.

The second resolution of the week came today from the Galion Kiwanis club, and received unanimous vote of club members at the regular luncheon-meeting, Tuesday noon, at Hotel Talbott. First action this week in regard to Galion's electric power problem came from the Galion Rotary club, Monday night.

Council President Pfeifer said that public opinion has changed decidedly in favor of securing power from an outside source on a temporary basis to provide adequate power for manufacturers since the meeting several months ago at which time he said 75 per cent of the people did not want to "hook up" with an outside for power.

Some 1,500 workmen are remaining idle this week in Galion due to a curtailment of power at Municipal Light and Power plant where improvements are underway. Last week, 2,500 men vacationed while the plant was making repairs.

Liquor Dealer Suggests Prosecuting Minors

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, July 9—Norman C Parr, executive secretary of the Buckeye Retail Liquor Dealers' association today asked tavern keepers to file charges against minors who obtain liquor by falsifying their ages.

"We are and always have been against the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors," Parr said "But we have discovered that some youngsters falsify their ages even to the point of getting fake birth certificates."

Parr said there was a case on record in which a tavern owner who sold liquor to a minor who used a false birth certificate was penalized.

"We think such minors should be punished," he said.

OHIO FEEDER AIRLINE SERVICE REQUESTED

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., July 9—Authorization for "an integrated pattern of local routes" for feeder airlines in Ohio was requested of the civil aeronautics board today by the Ohio aviation board.

By direction of the board, OAB Director C. E. A. Brown wrote Chairman James M. Landis, of the CAB.

"We believe that a substantial number of . . . medium size cities (in Ohio) would support a certificated air service of the type which the civil aeronautics board has been authorizing under three-year temporary certificates as so-called feeder operators, particularly should your board see fit to authorize an integrated pattern of local routes joining smaller cities of the state with such transportation centers and interchange points as the major Ohio cities of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo . . ."

Brown told Landis that it was "the sincere hope of the Ohio aviation board that a careful analysis of the local situation in Ohio will be made by the civil aeronautics board to the certification of such experimental service . . ."

The letter followed last week's decision by the CAB to abandon its hands-off policy in the Great Lakes area case now pending before the CAB and to urge its approval by the federal agency. The case deals with certification of several feeder airline routes throughout the state.

At the evangelistic service held in the Caledonia Church of Christ last night, Rev F. S. Dowdy of Lancaster, evangelist, spoke on "The Everlasting Gospel." He defined the Gospel according to the apostle Paul as the "power of God unto salvation to all who believe." Then he enlarged on the commands to be obeyed, and finally the "promises we can enjoy through a knowledge of the Gospel story and the commands involved." Mrs. Evelyn Lloyd Griffith of Maysville, Ky., the song evangelist, sang "Then Jesus Came." The public is invited to all services of the meeting which will continue each night through Sunday, July 20, Rev. Melvin Keeran, pastor, stated

Truck To Operate Another Year in Morrow County.

To assist Morrow county's weather-delayed liming program, the headwaters soil conservation district will operate its lime truck for another year for cooperators with the district, it was decided at a monthly meeting Monday night of the board of supervisors in the district office in the courthouse at Mt Gilead.

Final dates were set for two tours for Morrow county residents and a tentative date was set for a third

On Thursday, July 17, there will be a tour of the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster and on Tuesday, Aug 12, a tour has been arranged at the Ohio State university farm Sunday afternoon, Sept 7, has tentatively been set for a tour of the Coshocton research station.

Farm plans developed by four cooperators, Blaine Bishop of Franklin township, Jay Blayney of Lincoln township, George Zilger of Congress township, and Larry Barton of Bennington township, in cooperation with Roy Roller, U. S soil conservation service farm planner for the district, were approved by the board Approximately 460 acres of Morrow county farm lands will be brought under soil and water conservation practices as a result of approval of the plans

Applications for assistance in establishing conservation methods were approved for H L Hilton, South Bloomfield township, Mr. and Mrs Everett Ball, Franklin township Byron Shindledecker, Washington township, Fred J Brown, Harmony township, H J McCammon, Congress township, and J L Turner, Chester township

The board voted to send one of its members to the Mississippi valley training school for supervisors at Loesville, O., on Sept. 4, 5 and 6

It was announced that Chester Snyder and Forrest McClelland have accepted appointments to serve with C E. Flowers, chairman of the board, for the election of two supervisors in November.

British Hint Help Needed

Parliament Hears U. S. Lend-Lease by Fall May Be Necessary.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 9—Parliament had a hint from the government today that renewal of United States lend-lease before fall might be necessary to save Britain from unproductive poverty.

"We cannot indefinitely go on importing what we cannot pay for," Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison said last night in house of commons economic debate.

To bring buying down to ability to pay, he declared, Britain would have to cut imports 25 per cent and make "great adjustments" in production and standards of living

"The only remedy x x x," he said, "lies in devising some means whereby billions of dollars worth of North and South American production could be transferred across the Atlantic without the necessity for immediate payment in the form of an equal and opposite flow of European goods"

Of London's morning papers, only the ruling Labor party's Daily Herald refrained from criticizing government economic policy The Communist Daily Worker said the policy "appears to be to drift until the Americans come over with a form of lend-lease"

Britain now is running into debt at the rate of 450 000,000 pounds —about $1,800,000,000-yearly. If she keeps on drawing at the current rate on her $3,750,000,000 U S credit, it will be gone by the end of next winter.

Morrison made no direct mention of the offer of Secretary of State George C Marshall by which the U S would help European countries provided they organized for economic recovery.

This offer has resulted in a British-French call for a 24-nation conference scheduled to begin in Paris Saturday

The deputy prime minister did say, however, that Europe's nations "must agree on methods to help themselves

3 More Sightless Ohioans Given New Hope As Commission Sets Them Up in Business

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, July 9—Three more sightless Ohioans have livelihoods and hope today.

These sightless ones—two of them World War II veterans—operate the 59th refreshment stand opened recently by the Ohio commission for the blind

It's just a small business, like others you may have seen in any one of 22 Ohio cities, but it's their business. It's on the third floor of the veterans administration branch office in Columbus

Not since a German bullet destroyed the sight of 24-year-old Clyde W Waugh during the Battle of the Bulge in 1944 had he felt the elation of independence and self-won living

2 Others Aided

And the same goes for 26-year-old Melvin Adams, who lost his vision in the service and Andrew Martin, 26, who couldn't serve his country without eyes

Similar stands may be found in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron, Canton, Youngstown Zanesville, Warren, Troy, Piqua, Marietta, Sandusky Dover, Luna, Springfield, Mansfield, East Liverpool, Portsmouth, Steubenville, Hamilton and Newark

Twelve of the stands are operated by veterans, eight of them veterans of the most recent conflict, and 16 others are served by persons without vision

These persons ask no charity, neither are they given it Their state-owned and supervised businesses did a gross of $600,000 in 1946.

Newark Led Off

The first such stand was opened in Ohio in Newark in 1935, about 22 years after the first one in the nation opened in New York.

The stands are erected and stocked initially by the stand placement service of Ohio commission for the blind, part of the state welfare department

But after the initial inventory is purchased, the blind operator is strictly on his own. He must buy supplies keep daily cash slips and conduct his business in a workmanlike manner.

The blind commission does his bookkeeping and charges a three per cent service fee, which is used to make repairs and additions to the stands

"The stand program," said Everett R Steece administrative assistant to the Ohio commission for the blind, "has demonstrated fully that it is not sympathy but opportunity equal to that provided sighted persons which the blind people ask"

SUMMER BOX CAR SHORTAGE PREDICTED

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, July 9—The country is threatened late this summer with the most serious freight car shortage in history, the commerce department reported today

In the face of growing car loadings, the department said, the number of cars in operation has dropped 24,000 since Jan 1 Furthermore, it said, freight car manufacturers did not expect to turn out more than 7,000 new units in July as against a goal of 10,000

The industry has a capacity of 155,000 new cars in a month but is unable to operate at peak largely because of the steel shortage

"Freight car requirements," the commerce department said, "may be summed up by stating the trade estimates that 150 000 new cars are needed to relieve the shortage, and 574 000 additional cars would be required to replace cars over 26 years of age"

The statement pointed out that in the first 22 weeks of the year, 18,100,000 cars were loaded, or 16 per cent more than in the comparable period last year and 29 per cent more than in the first 22 weeks of 1940

Indications are that the shortage will not be ended quickly," the department said

Hitler's Work Being Undone By Spiritual Revival in Europe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Some years ago when your correspondent was a youngster in the Vermont parsonage which his clergyman father administered to the welfare of his parish, the church occasionally would hold religious revivals when it seemed that the community was skidding spiritually and morally—an effective method of stimulating sluggish souls and arousing minds to righteousness. Revivals were usually important and memorable occasions and many of them produced results. Perhaps that is why the term still attaches to any movement of importance designed to bring about a spiritual revival in a community which is boiling over with sin-stricken souls.

Europe—a widespread crusade to effect a rehabilitation of spiritual values which Hitler did his determined best to kill, and which other forces continue to attack.

We now a concrete example of the drive for spiritual rehabilitation Sunday when King George and Prime Minister Attlee led Britons in a national day of prayer. Throughout the country people gathered in the churches to seek divine guidance for the trying days to come, and in old St. Paul's cathedral where the king and Attlee worshipped, the Archbishop of Canterbury asked that "as a nation we may return to the simple laws of the Ten Commandments."

Not for Just Day

But that wasn't merely a one-day demonstration, for extensive plans have been made to continue this drive for spiritual rehabilitation. Moreover the revival is by no means restricted to England, for the continent also is on the march, and has been for a long time, as I discovered during my last visit. Everywhere you go you find movements under way to repair the grievous damage done by Hitler, who waged a fierce campaign to destroy Christianity. He maintained that religion was the enemy of Nazism, as no doubt it was, for no upright person could subscribe to the fuehrer's program of wholesale conquest, slaughter and enslavement.

And Hitler didn't stop with his attack on religion. He pursued a studied program for the debasement of the peoples he conquered in order to render them subservient to him. His idea was to destroy not only morale but morals, and he did vast damage. For example, he was mainly responsible for the establishment of the terrible black market which did so much to wreck the economy of France. The black market was inaugurated by the German army under instructions from Hitler.

Hunger for Ideas

However, spiritual and moral values are on the march in Europe, and there is great hunger for new ideas. The war has drawn sharper lines, and these days the European has to fight for his principles, because the opposition to religion didn't disappear with Hitler. There are other elements at work, and they are tough.

It's a real risk to stand up for moral and spiritual things in some parts of Europe. You've got to be prepared to pay.

A great center of the revival is at Caux-sur-Montreaux, Switzerland, where a world assemoly for moral re-armament will open on July 15 and will continue until Sept. 15. This is the second year of the assembly, and last year it was attended by some 2,500 delegates from 26 nations.

I have just received a letter from a member of the house of commons in London, saying that a sizable parliamentary delegation will attend the assembly at Caux. Representatives from the parliaments of many other countries also are expected to participate. Thus moral rearmament will radiate in many directions from Caux to continue aiding the crusades which I myself saw under way in numerous places, among them England, Holland, France and Switzerland.

NOTED RELIGIOUS WORKER TO SPEAK

R. G. LeTourneau To Come Here in September.

Tentative arrangements to bring to Marion in the fall a well-known figure in the field of religion and business, R. G. LeTourneau, manufacturer who spends much of his time in promotion of religious work, were made known Tuesday by Dr. Henry Schaeffer, president of the Marion County Ministerial association.

Mr. LeTourneau gained wide publicity in national magazines recently with his device for pouring concrete houses in a single unit. Drawing wide attention was his policy of turning profits from his manufacture of gigantic moving equipment into the LeTourneau Foundation for promotion of religious work, and devotion of half his time to traveling extensively in the furtherance of religious interests. He appeared in Marion a few years ago for a special service here.

Plans under formulation for his appearance at the "Christ for the World" movement services here in September are for cooperative effort of the Ministerial association with two other Marion organizations, Dr. Schaeffer stated. The meeting will be held Sept. 26 through 28.

It is planned that the services will be held in the pavilion at Garfield park, with the Friday night opening service sponsored by the women's department of the Marion County Council of Churches. The Kiwanis club is to sponsor the Saturday night meeting, and afternoon and evening services Sunday are to be under direction of the Ministerial association.

The ministerial group, which does not hold meetings during the summer, will open the 1947-48 association year in the fall.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Varicose Veins

Chief attraction of a sheer stocking—as all women realize—is the leg which it clothes. If the legs are scarred or otherwise disfigured, sheer stockings serve only to show up the defect.

That is one of the reasons why so many women these days are concerned about varicose veins. Varicose veins are enlarged veins which have lost their normal elastic quality and have become flabby. They may occur anywhere in the body but are most common in the legs, where they often cause tiredness and aching. As a rule, however, they do not become really troublesome unless accompanied by complications such as the formation of a blood clot within the distended vein.

Dr. Morris Friedell of Chicago, discussed this subject in a recent article. He has found there is some evidence that the tendency to develop varicose veins runs in families.

With increasing age, the veins, just as other structures of the body, lose much of the strength that was present in them earlier in life. The veins under the surface of the skin do not have as much support as those deeper in the tissues. When pressure in the veins is increased by standing, by work or blocking of the flow of blood through them, overstretching may occur.

When the veins are dilated or stretched, the normal flow of blood through them is interfered with, and complications may develop. To begin with, there may be swelling of the tissue with collection of fluid in them known as edema. This edema results in poor nutrition of the skin which becomes discolored, and large sores or ulcers may form due to actual death of the tissues. Prolonged treatment for these so-called varicose ulcers may be required.

Unfortunately, there is no way of restoring the varicose veins to normal. However, if the varicose veins are small, they may be injected with a number of substances which are irritating to the walls of the veins. This causes a reaction to occur, and the vein is obliterated.

The wearing of an elastic bandage also helps overcome the pressure and collection of blood in the vein and thus aids in overcoming the swelling.

According to Dr. Friedell, the more severe cases of varicose veins are best treated by a combination of surgery, injection treatment and bandaging. The surgical treatment consists in tying off what is known as the greater saphenous vein which is located around the inner side of the thigh. This operation keeps the blood flowing down the leg through the vein instead of upwards. In addition, the veins nearer the surface are treated by injection, and the patients are instructed to wear the proper kind of elastic bandage.

With treatment of this type, the varicose veins may be eradicated.

Is Anyone Cheering?

COAL MINE operators have averted a coal strike by giving the United Mine Workers a better contract than John L. Lewis expected to get. Miners will get history's most substantial single increase in hourly rates, besides important concessions that will boost the price of coal by as much as $1 a ton to consumers.

Is anyone cheering?

There is a new twist in industrial relations—a decline in management resistance to higher prices for consumers. They are losing their only protection. Coal now being sold in a bull market because of temporary shortages of fuel oil and gas, is only one example. Automobiles are another.

On a basis of what the traffic would bear, mine operators could give United Mine Workers more than was being asked, because they knew the extra cost could be passed along to the public. The operators had everything to gain and nothing to lose by settling with Mr. Lewis, so they settled.

Coal consumers will pick up the check. There will be expensive and extensive repercussions. Ultimately, the coal settlement will force all prices higher. Organized consumers—those belonging to unions—will try to force their hourly wages higher to meet the difference. Unorganized consumers—the overwhelming majority—will cross their fingers and hope for the best.

Perhaps this is a preview of the ultimate issue precipitated by labor monopolies—the issue between producers and consumers. Unorganized consumers may be crowded to the wall by collusion between big business and big unions.

Ultimately, union negotiators and negotiators for management may find it expedient to get their heads together. The coal settlement, most generous in history, may usher in an era of peace in the coal mines. It also may usher in an era of genteel collusion among producers to sweat out an ever-higher price for peace from the helpless consumer.

What Other Reasons Are There?

PRESIDENT TRUMAN hinted at, but did not specify, the real reason for legislation to admit European displaced persons as immigrants. They are nearly all refugees from the Soviet Union's secret police.

By admitting them to this country, the United States could affirm its historic position as the country to which all oppressed peoples look for hope. It could revitalize the tradition of freedom that has been the strongest political force on earth since the American Revolution. It could draw the issue clearly between governments in which individual rights are sacred and governments in which individuals are subordinate to the dictatorship of states.

Displaced Europeans are peculiarly an American responsibility. For generations Europeans have turned to the New World for help; America was built on their love of freedom and their determination to be rid of despotism. The displaced persons could be absorbed into this society easily. They could be useful members of the American communities in which they settled. All, in one way or another, have earned comradeship in a free society.

What other reasons are there for making the relatively simple arrangements to provide refuge in the United States for human beings with no place else to go?

Tuning Up

JOHN L. LEWIS having been satisfied for the present, attention is turned to James C. Petrillo, who is getting restive again in the interests of his American Federation of Musicians. He says when the recording contract expires Jan. 1 he's going to stop union members from making records. In February, when the radio contract expires, he says he'll stop them from making music for the networks. "Anyhow, that's the way I feel right now," he says.

The musicians' Mahatma always relies on the dark view of the future as a bargaining wedge, and it has forced some very lucrative working arrangements for AFL members. It's highly probable that between now and the first of the year some arrangement can be worked out. It always has been in the past, come contract time. The jukebox and other purveyors of canned music are here to stay, and Petrillo knows it.

Settlers for Australia

AUSTRALIA is bidding for 400,000 workers to emigrate from England, and it appears England is willing to spare them provided they comprise a cross-section of the population. Thus a country which has a manpower shortage is willing to spare some of its workers because it could get along with fewer mouths to feed on imported food.

Australia is far too sparsely settled for full development. With only 7,000,000 inhabitants, its cities are separated by vast stretches of uninhabited land. It could do with at least 20,000,000. It is one of the anomalies of these times that a country with a manpower shortage is willing to help make up that deficit.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Attitude of Worry Noted in State Department.

WASHINGTON, July 9—General shall appears to his friends to have been worried lately. So is all the state department crowd. The Paris conference confirmed the worst about the Soviets. Not only are they against peace, they are opposed to restoring stability. They are against the western powers even aiding Europe further. Officially, they have presented this deliberate position. Consequently nearly everyone now realizes Russia has become bolder in promoting a not very subtle revolution to establish world Communism. They will block anything which interferes, and cooperate only with ventures furthering their revolutionary cause.

This projects a somewhat new field for diplomatic operations. We are the only power big enough to resist profitably. So we expect to get the brunt. Yet no official here is planning anything sensational or different from what we have been doing, as far as the reporters know. We have committed ourselves for nearly $20 billion (yes, billions) of aid abroad since the war; Bretton Woods $6 billion; British loan $3.7 billion; Export-Import Bank $3.5 billion; UNRRA and lend-lease postwar settlement $2 billion apiece; Germany and Japan $1.5 billion; new direct relief $750 million.

$9 Billion Spent

Marshall said in his women's press speech we had sent $9 billion of goods to Europe, but this is only a part of our aid expenditures. Incidentally, his speech sounded much more forceful in delivery than in print because of the emphasis he gave his main point that from this aid we have received more criticism than appreciation.

At any rate the bankers say $60 billion is enough unless we want to ruin our own economy. But Harold Stassen who is thinking aloud a lot on international affairs, has been doing some thinking off the record that we are in another critical European relief period now. His associates quote him as saying congress will have to hold a special session to appropriate more money unless it writes out a blank check for, say, another half billion and leaves it behind in Mr. Truman's hands. Mr. Truman says only he thinks there will be a continuation of this session beyond adjournment date into August.

Stassen seems to have a hoe in the administration furrow, however. His friends are pointing out his Iowa speech about giving Europe 10 per cent of our production, helped work the soil up (along with speeches by Vandenberg, Hoover, Cohen, Acheson and others) for the Marshall plan of promoting European self-aid.

In all this, Marshall seems to be a leveler. He is not freewheeling on "internationally minded" states. Nor has he cringed when anyone said "fascism," or "isolationist," or "boo." He seems to went to let things develop to see what is necessary, and then to do it, without any preconceived fastidious or isolated notions that it should be done thus and so, and only he can do it. Consequently new policies like the Ruhr restoration loan are developing slowly and carefully

Can't Appease Communists

No one here really knows anything to do about the open Communist obstructionist revolution, except this. War is unthinkable. You cannot appease a revolution. You cannot even appease a Communist, except by destroying yourself for him. Little is seen or heard about Henry Wallace or James Roosevelt around the state department. The Marshall crowd does not even stop to criticize them. On the other side, Messrs. Truman, Stassen, et al, know that as soon as the subject of more money than the nearly $20 billion already gone abroad is officially raised, the isolationists will break loose from their moorings behind the bi-partisan foreign policy and streak questions across the skies. The administrationists rather think Marshall, the leveler, may be their best bet and are inclined to let him have his head for a while. They would like to steal the show from the Republicans by something new and sensational, but they fear the hornets' nest, suspecting it may descend on them anyway in some unexpected European collapse, even if they do not molest it.

About all this, Senator Taft has been rather angrily determined there shall be no special session of congress or prolongation of this session. In fact about the only soul which dared peep about a special session has been that of Hatch of New Mexico, and everyone ignored him. Taft says something about not taking executive responsibilities. Congress overwhelmingly wants to clean up current loose ends and get out this month for rest. Mr. Truman might recall it in October. But Taft is going to exercise the wartime privilege congress accorded itself to reassemble itself if situations warrant before January.

Draft Board Members Are 1-A in Our Hearts

Congress has passed a resolution officially expressing the nation's gratitude to those who served on its 6,443 draft boards.

That action was an overdue as the interest on Confederate bonds.

Draft board members were the unsung heroes of the recent conflict. They made more enemies and less money than anybody connected with the war effort.

By the very nature of their duties, they had to make more disputed decisions than a bifocaled umpire.

As a consequence, they got little thanks and less sleep, the night hours being filled with phone calls from indignant parents who couldn't understand why Junior had received his greetings when that fish-face Schmoe kid down the street was still deferred.

Yes sir, this resolution of appreciation to draft board members is long overdue, their only previous recognition being a card back from Salerno, "Having big time, wish you were here."

A Matter of Rank

Military Precedence Poses Problem.

WHILE discussing the bill which would make the army and navy promotion system uniform, Representative Fred Bradley of Michigan envisioned a situation which might develop someday. Here is the way the Congressional Record reporter took it down:

"It seems the navy cannot use commodores . . . Therefore a captain in the navy is promoted directly to rear admiral . . . The army insists on keeping brigadier generals, so its colonels are advanced to brigadier generals and its brigadier generals to major generals. Now, naturally, when a navy captain is commissioned a rear admiral he takes precedence over all brigadier generals, regardless of date of commission, and that is not pleasing to the generals concerned . . . .

"To keep up with the Joneses, something must be done about this situation . . . As a consequence they work out the rather amazing situation—that a brigadier general is equal in rank to the lower half of the rear admirals, while a major general is equal to the upper half of the rear admirals, but that the grades of brigadier general and major general are not equal . . .

"Now, no foreign nation is going to recognize this mental aberration of ours . . . Let us then suppose we have a rather senior brigadier general ashore in one of our ports and that we have a rear admiral of the lower half in the same port in his flagship. Then in comes a foreign warship with a rear admiral aboard. The foreigner, let us say, has a date of commission more recent than our own rear admiral and so is junior to him in accordance with international custom . . .

"Now, we have a pretty situation like this: The American brigadier general is senior to the American rear admiral. The American rear admiral is senior to the foreign rear admiral. The foreign rear admiral is senior to the American brigadier general. Round and round and round she goes—just like a pinwheel while we have such a law on our books . . .

"These customs (of rank) have been established many centuries. If you want to make two grades of rear admirals, all right; somewhat like the British did at one time when they had rear admirals of the blue and rear admirals of the red; but to my mind it is a very foolish thing. It seems to me to be a mental aberration to say that one-half of a grade is equal to a certain thing and the other half of the same grade is equal to another thing, but that the two things are not equal to each other."

Regarding the matter of some foreign nations assigning officers who outrank ours to international boards, Representative Paul J. Kilday of Texas said: "I have a system which I think would work. We can authorize our flag officers to carry two pockets full of stars. Whenever they are assigned to a station with a foreign officer who always outranks them, they may be authorized to pin on enough stars to outrank the other man."

The House decided to mull over these matters for a while.

Automobile Dates From Horses' Day

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—When Shelby Melton goes out for a spin in his automobile he evokes the old cry from curbstone hecklers: "Why don't you get a horse?"

That's because when Melton's 40-year-old car was a current model it was a "horseless carriage."

It is a 1907 model and Melton says it was one of the first Buicks ever built. He found it three years ago in a junkyard at Gallipolis, O., while foraging for spare parts.

Melton is in the automobile business, so it was natural that he should buy the ancient vehicle, tow it home and put it in running shape.

Prime difficulties, Melton has found, lie in finding tires to fit and starting in low gear without jerking the daylights out of the passengers. Once under way, Melton says, his car runs smoothly and comfortably.

REVERSE ACTION

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, July 9, 1937.

Equatorial rain squalls threatened to interrupt the search for Amelia Earhart which Navy airmen considered was entering the most crucial phase.

The world's largest circus, Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey combined shows, was in Marion for two performances on the Drake lot. Hundreds of persons watched the circus unload at the Erie siding on Greenwood street. Nearly 15,000 attended the performances.

The temperature soared to 94, but was still well below the 101 high point of the previous year.

Mrs. L. M. Eikenbary, Mrs. J. C. Marks and Mrs. N. V. Foreman were named delegates to the seventeenth annual convention to be held at Columbus in August, at a meeting of the auxiliary to Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion.

Dallas Wilson King, 19, of Cardington died of a ruptured appendix in White Cross hospital, Columbus.

Drake's Tavern softball team scored a 4 to 1 victory over the Kenton Hardware club on the President field. Joseph Robbins led the Marion hitting attack with a home run and single in four trips to the plate.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, July 9, 1927.

A strike of gasoline filling station attendants in Chicago which had seriously handicapped automobile transportation in the city was settled when a compromise agreement was effected.

A report showed that the bonded indebtedness of the city of Marion was reduced during the year ended June 30, from $2,483,170 to $2,154,407.

John Drew, 73, noted American stage star, died in San Francisco after a five weeks' illness of arthritis and septic poisoning. Among relatives at his bedside when the end came was his famous nephew, John Barrymore.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson of Windsor street, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Morris of North Prospect street and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Austin of Mark street.

After reading the doctrines of Plato, Socrates, or Aristotle, we feel that the specific difference between their words and Christ's is the difference between an inquiry and a revelation.—Joseph Parker.

How Workers Fare

World Survey Views Their Economic Status.

IN ALL but a few countries the industrial worker finds life difficult today, according to a 14-nation survey in the July issue of Factory Management & Maintenance.

"In at least four of the great nations the worker has practically no margin between himself and hunger," the survey shows. "Only in the United States, Canada, Sweden and South Africa do workers interviewed have even the smallest of the comforts they want. At the other extreme is the Indian worker who can only guess at what life will bring him. Between the extremes are nine countries, in all of which the workers fare poorly—some much worse than others."

An automatic screw machine operator was chosen in each country because he was considered representative of production workers and his job was comparable the world over.

To buy a work shirt in 1940 the American worker had to put in 1 hour and 28 minutes of work; the British worker 4 hours and 3 minutes; Belgian 5 hours and 49 minutes; French 5 hours and 53 minutes; German 9 hours and 50 minutes and the Italian 17 hours and 5 minutes. The war has widened the gap between the American worker and his counterpart abroad.

"It is high output as low cost—not planned economy, not subsidized scarcity — that creates wealth," the magazine says. "Only in efficient production and distribution lie the hope of free peoples who want to enjoy free living with comfort, with leisure, even with luxury."

Here are some of the findings of McGraw-Hill news personnel who virtually lived with the families to get these close-up reports:

United States: Worker has modern six-room home on which he is working off mortgage; has full range of household appliances and his little girl rides to school in a bus; save only $10 a month compared with $40 before the war but has plenty to eat; is union member, independent politically but voted Democrat recently. Expects to trade in 1940 Ford next year and send children to college.

Canada: Makes a little less, eats a little better, lives as well as U. S. worker. Is middle-of-the-roader, has few hundred dollars in bank; no radical views, satisfied with present government.

Sweden: Has three-room prefabricated cottage on city-owned land. Furnishings simple but good. Car considered unnecessary.

Argentina: Leads a simple life but cannot save. Lives in three-room brick cottage with another couple and mother-in-law of one of them. Food plentiful. Furniture good. Worker has two suits.

Italy: Food takes almost entire income. House outmoded. Outlook generally is gloomy.

South Africa: Owns own home, acre of ground and 1929 Chevrolet. Family eats well. Furniture is serviceable. Old-fashioned radio only electric appliance.

Essentials of Summer Diet

A PHILADELPHIA nutrition expert presents some hints on the essentials of a summer diet in the current issue of Hygeia, health magazine of the American Medical Association.

Michael G. Wohl, M. D., Chairman, Advisory Committee on Nutrition Philadelphia Department of Public Health, states that "the first requirement of a balanced diet is an adequate energy intake for work, play and body functions. The amount varies with age, sex and physical activity. For the man of average size engaged in desk work or other nonstrenuous occupation, the daily requirement is calculated, scientifically, as 2500 calories or heat units. Growing children and laborers require two or three times this caloric intake."

Pointing out that in summer, since there is no heat loss from the body for which to compensate, the amount of food eaten may be reduced, the author cautions that the reduction should not take place at the expense of the proteins.

"Proteins are not only the 'body-building' foods," Dr. Wohl writes. "They are necessary for growth and for replacing tissues worn out through activity, but also they have a vital function in building resistance to infection."

Summer makes no difference in the requirements for the other essentials of a balanced diet, the vitamins and the minerals, states the author. "We must have iron in the blood to get oxygen from the air. We must have calcium and phosphorous to build strong bones, to build tissue, to prevent rickets. Calcium is also essential to maintain nervous stability. We must have iodine to prevent goiter."

"Creeping" High Wire Challenges Aerialists

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—A new and more dangerous high wire for circus acrobats is a swinging oval track that tilts and rises 40 feet above the usual tight-rope levels, according to its inventor, A. A. Ostrander, well-known theatrical designer.

The apparatus is shaped like a mammoth tennis racket with a weight at the "handle." As the performers move on a narrow outer rim it changes position and can be made to rise vertically high above the ring.

A troupe of aerialists has gone into training for the big top debut of the new device, Ostrander says.

Daily Bible Thought

God makes his rain to fall on the just and on the unjust. The Tower of Siloam fell on saints and sinners alike. Do we demand special exceptional treatment? Be reconciled to impartial law and Christ will show how to triumph over circumstance: "Be ye reconciled to God."—2 Cor. 5:20.

Traffic Notes

By TRUMAN TWILL

So you're one of those motorists who never changed a tire on the road at night and wouldn't know how to go about it. Tire-changing, as far as you're concerned, is a dying art, except for people paid to know how to do it without knocking themselves out. The thing to do when a tire goes flat is have a man come in a truck with a lot of machinery and fix it while you look at the scenery.

And you've wondered what you'd do if a tire went flat at the far corner of nowhere late at night with no houses in sight and 20 miles to the next town, but of course such a thing couldn't happen to you. Still, if it ever did, what would you do? It's a matter for conjecture until it happens. Then it's a matter of record.

It happened on one of the busiest roads in this part of the country, late at night, at the far corner of nowhere. The family smoke surrey and its sobered occupants suddenly were very quiet, very desolate, very helpless. What was papa going to do?

The three rusty things in the back end of the car proved to be two parts of a jack and a wrench to turn tire lugs. Note: On modern cars tire lugs do not always turn in the orthodox directions. Note: On modern cars, jacks are not used from the rear, but from the side, unless they are bumper jacks. Note: There must be some better way to find out where to put the jacks than to feel for the right place with bare fingers along the length of a greasy spring.

Note: The spare tire may be almost as flat as the flat; if it is, what are you going to do about it, except ignore the pungent odor of overheated rubber? Note: There is no easy way to remove a hub cap. Note: All jacks are designed to tip over at the climax of the tire-changing operation.

There was a cheer from the younger generation in the back seat when the job was done and prospects of sleeping that night in beds at home were revived. There was even a "well done" from the other side of the front seat. They didn't think the old man had it in him. Little do they realize this country was not made great by patriots who had to rely on someone else to repair the wheels on their prairie schooners.

In the good old days motorists not only could whisk off a flat, slap on a spare and be rolling in 10 minutes, but in a pinch could tear apart the flat and patch the tube with a Handy Helper Kit. Yes sir! The Man Who Never Changed a Tire remembers it as if it were yesterday. He used to watch them do it and marvel. And now—at last—he has done something to marvel at. He has changed a tire himself.

High Protein Bread Sought

By The Associated Press

BERKELEY, Calif.—A loaf of bread which would be more nourishing but less fattening than ordinary bread, is the goal of a University of California nutritionist.

With 300 pounds of whole wheat flour and samples of dried milk made by several methods at the university's dairy, Miss Barbara Kennedy, the diet expert, aims to turn out bread with a protein content of 15 to 20 per cent.

The protein content of bakers' bread is 8 to 9 per cent, she said.

This high protein bread would give growing children additional body-building substances without increasing the bulk of their diet, and would give dairymen a new outlet for surplus milk.

Due to shortages of raw petroleum, the Japanese during World War II made fuels and lubricants from pine root oil, vegetable oils and sweet potato alcohol.

A number of young people have expressed their desire for the organization of such a club and indications are that the project will fill a long-felt need in the city and provide recreation for a large group of boys and girls.

Following last night's meeting Mr. Orcutt showed a baseball film "Play Ball, Son." The picture shows a boys team in action and emphasizes proper parts of the proper technique of batting.

GAS PRICES GO UP ANOTHER CENT HERE

Standard First To Announce Statewide Raise.

In keeping with a statewide price increase most Marion service stations raised the price of gasoline one cent per gallon effective today.

Standard Oil Co. officials were the first to announce the gas raise and according to an Associated Press dispatch from Cleveland the raise is the third to go into effect during the past year.

Regular gasoline is now 22 cents per gallon with premium grades selling for 24 cents a gallon.

Standard Oil Co officials were quoted as saying the price raise is a reflection of the post war increase in the cost of crude oil and the new price will put Ohio gasoline nearer to the higher prices listed by neighboring states.

Ohio Village Builds Home for War Hero With 4,500 Helping

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, O., July 9—The village of 4,500 fellow townsmen of Gerald Jeppe, a permanently disabled war hero, and today was doing something about it.

The town is building a five-room house for Jeppe, who was wounded on a bombing mission over Wiener, Neustadt, Austria, in 1944. He was hit in the back, paralyzing his legs.

When Jeppe returned home he was unable to find a home, and that started the Gerald Jeppe house campaign.

The American Legion post offered its services to co-ordinate the collection of funds and materials and to schedule the working hours of individuals who offered their services.

Nearly everyone in the community has taken part in the project in one way or another.

More than $2,000 was raised. Building materials and supplies flowed in. Plumbers, plasterers, painters, electricians, carpenters and architects offered their services.

The house a modified colonial is on a large lot on one of the town's side streets. Space for an office has been included as Jeppe plans to study accounting.

Jeppe, who won the Purple Heart, Air Medal, Mediterranean theater ribbon with one bronze star, the Victory medal and the American theater ribbon declared as he watched the house nearing completion:

"I am a man among friends."

May and Garssons Ask New Trial for Fraud

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 9 — Ex-Congressman Andrew J. May and munitions makers Henry and Murray Garsson appealed today for a new trial on grounds their July 3 bribery convictions were "unfair" and the result of "prejudice."

The three contended there was insufficient evidence to warrant their convictions on charges that the Garssons conspired to buy and May agreed to sell his wartime services as chairman of the house military committee for more than $50,000.

Army Searchlights at Prospect Answer To "Saucer" Mystery

Marion county prospects can stop craning their necks toward the night sky if the explanation to the "flying saucers mystery" brought forth today is satisfactory to Thomas E. Reed of 855 Congress street, who is in charge of the searchlight department of the Marion Engineer depot, said today that two searchlights were in use in Union and Marion counties Friday night about the time that the elusive disks were reported by observers.

The description given by those who viewed the lighted objects tallied with the one Mr. Reed gave of the powerful lights used by the armed forces during the war. The lights were turned toward the sky and rotated much like an air beacon, he said. They made a bluish-white light which can be seen for 80 miles on a clear night. The lights have caused comment several times before, Mr. Reed said.

Lights on Display

A light crew was been at the lights at Waldo for the Fourth of July celebration and in the evening stopped at Prospect where they were seen turned toward the sky. The lights will cause a reflection against clouds, was explained.

Four Marion county residents reported seeing "saucers" last Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. E. Hunter of 175 Pearl street saw them while driving near the A. and W. Camp near Caledonia. Robbins of LaRue also reported the strange lights. Mr. Campbell was driving south from Marion and Mr. Robbins was at his home at the time.

Similar Explanation

A similar explanation was given for "saucers" seen by two farmers living east of Prospect as A searchlight passing over a cloud at Mansfield, it is thought, may have accounted for the object seen by Daniel Gregg and Leo Schwartz Friday night.

Flying saucers seen by a Richland farmer may also have been reflections from searchlights. Carl Thompson said he saw five disks traveling at a rapid rate while he was returning from work in the fields Friday night. His father-in-law, E. S. Kelly, also saw the strange lights. Mr. Thompson said the disks traveled in a westerly direction at a rapid rate. They appeared to be small, about three feet in diameter, translucent in the center and brightly lighted around the rims.

"Disk" Found In New Mexico Just Weather Balloon

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 9 — An examination by the Army revealed that a mysterious object found on a ranch in New Mexico ranch was a harmless balloon — not a flying disk.

An intelligence officer said the capture of Texas and Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, commander of the Eighth Air Force with headquarters here, took one of the objects.

The bundle of tinfoil, broken wood and rubber tentacles of a balloon were flown here yesterday by Army Air Transport in the wake of reports that it was a flying disk.

But the general said the objects were the flimsy remains of a gas and target used to determine the speed, direction and velocity of winds at high altitudes.

The weather balloon was found several days ago on a desolate section of New Mexico by a rancher, W. W. Brazil. He said he didn't think much about it until he went into Corona, N. M., last Saturday and heard about the "flying disks."

Brazil reported his find to the sheriff's office.

The sheriff called the Roswell air field and Maj. Jesse A. Marcel, 509th Bomb Group intelligence officer, was assigned to the case.

Col. William H. Blanchard, commanding officer of the bomb group, reported the find to General Ramey and the object was flown immediately to the army air field here.

Ramey went on the air here last night to announce the New Mexico discovery was not a flying disk.

In Roswell the discovery set off a flurry of excitement.

Sheriff George Wilcox's telephone lines were clogged.

Three calls came from England, one of them from the London Daily Mail, he said.

Youth Arrested Here On Charge Filed in 1945

William J. Rowland 23, who gave his address as the Milner Hotel pleaded guilty to charges of grand larceny in municipal court today. He was bound over to the grand jury on a bond of $1,000. The warrant for his arrest was filed in November, 1945, by Rex Hill. The warrant charges Rowland with stealing money totaling $136.94, a trench coat valued at $10 and a .45 caliber automatic valued at $35 from the Hill filling station on Davids street.

Marion police saw Rowland in the city and remembered there was a warrant for him. He told the police he had been in Virginia.

Hungarian Steel Plant Works Overtime on Three Year Plan

Associated Press Correspondent Daniel De Luce, back in the area where he won a Pulitzer prize, is writing about the "little fellows" of countries in the Soviet orbit of influence, and of the industries and political movements which affect their lives. More uncensored stories from De Luce will appear later.

Associated Press Writer

CSEPEL ISLAND, Hungary—The Manfred Weiss Steel company was the Krupp's of Hungary until American long-range bombers knocked it out four times in 1944.

Today it is working almost full blast in a Soviet-approved program for converting dominantly agricultural Hungary into a super-modern industrial state.

Not a scrap of Weiss equipment has been sent off to Russia as war booty. The nation's largest steel works continue to be an exclusively Hungarian property under Hungarian management.

Here, in hot, sprawling mills where artillery, panzers and bomber engines for Hitler once rolled off the assembly lines, output has increased 39 per cent in five months and is now at the rate of $2,635,000 worth of metal products a month.

Workers Poorly Paid

Eighteen thousand poorly-paid workers are divided almost equally in membership between the Communist and Social Democratic parties. But they are publicly united in supporting the management's attempt to increase production still further under the national three-year plan.

Painted on the highest chimney on Csepel Island, a Communist slogan proclaims: "3 year plan brings better life to workers."

The Weiss company was started in the 19th century by a Jewish junk dealer. The founder's family, persecuted by Nazis during the war, has no current voice in the management. The latter is furnished by a state body, the central for heavy industry.

In a series of four heavy strikes, the U. S. Air Forces battered the works so savagely that production of engines for the Luftwaffe's Heinkels never resumed and 50 per cent of all plant buildings were seriously damaged.

Operates at Loss

Since the war, the Weiss company has been operating at a bookkeeping loss and drawing large state subsidies. This government money has actually gone into reconstruction.

Ten thousand tons of steel are processed monthly. Aluminum, copper and brass are produced. The steel lacery of Budapest's new bridges over the Danube came from here. A considerable but officially unestimated share of output has gone to the Soviet Union for reparations.

Weiss is the keystone in Hungary's ambitious scheme to win a major share of Germany's former markets in southeastern Europe.

Chief Manager Odon Magashazy, who says he would like to visit the United States to study American technology, is paid $212 a month. His workers receive what western union leaders would describe as a criminally low wage: $34 to $59 a month depending on skill.

But even this wage represents a 16 per cent boost over what they earned at the start of 1947, as a reward for increasing production 39 per cent with no increase in the total labor force.

$8.52 for 48 Hours

Istvan Welland, who helps at a stamping machine for $8.52 for a 48-hour week, said he and his wife and three children live in a one-room flat with kitchen but no conveniences such as electric lights. He usually skips breakfast, he said, so the children have more to eat.

As a Communist representative on the workers' committee, which advises the management of matters pertaining to both administration and production, 45-year-old Imre Batto's wage is $14.05 a week, the same as he received as an active welder. But his work now is purely mental.

Considered typical of the post-war minor labor leader, Batto only joined the Communists two years ago and is far from rigid in his dialectics.

Asked if he believed Communist assertions recently that the United States had conspired to restore the Horthy government, he laughed.

"Just Propaganda"

"That's just propaganda," he declared. "The United States wouldn't support a man who has made war against America."

As much as Manager Magashazy, Communist Batto appears to take pride in the fact that their company has virtually regained its 1938 production level and is only 20 per cent under the all-time high in 1943.

Both express emphatic belief in the national three-year plan which is supposed to give all Hungarians a better living standard by 1950 than they had before the war, and at the same time pay off most of the armistice debt owing to Russia.

Both claim that the one way for the country to recover is to avoid violent political factionalism during the next few years and assert a coalition of parties in the government should be continued during that time.

Neither indicates any particular affection for Russia and both are obviously thankful that the Soviet occupation army has not interfered at Csepel Island.

PATROL OPENS NEW TRAINING CLASS

Corp. R. P. Shaw Taking Applications for Recruits.

Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the Ohio state highway patrol, announced today that the patrol now is in the process of selecting applicants for its next recruit training school. He said no date has been set for the opening of the school but that examinations will be conducted during the summer months.

"We have had some difficulty in recent years in securing the quality of men that we need for this work, because of the low salary. But since the legislature this year provided an increase in pay for new men we anticipate a heavy volume of applications," Col. Mingle stated. Preliminary requirements which an applicant must first meet are: United States citizenship; residence in Ohio for five years; age 21 to 35 years; minimum height of five feet eight inches; minimum weight of 165 pounds; a completed high school education or the equivalent in other schooling or training; and character and reputation above reproach.

Cpl. R. P. Shaw of the patrol's post at Marion has been authorized by Col. Mingle to interview young men from this vicinity who are interested in this work and to issue application blanks to those who meet requirements.

The patrol's radio network throughout the state occasionally has openings for radio operators. The requirements for radio men are less exacting in some respects, but it is necessary that prospective radio operators have a second class radio license.

Col. Mingle points out that the state civil service regulation allowing an additional 20 per cent added onto the passing grade of a veteran gives a decided preference to men who served in the armed forces in World War II.

Ohio Farm Work Shows Progress, Agency Says

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, July 9—Ohio farmers enjoyed another favorable week of weather and made rapid progress in essential operation, the U S weather bureau office at Columbus reported today.

For the week ending July 8 said U S Meteorologist George Minding, practically all the rain that occurred came last Sunday and about two-thirds of the reporting stations estimated the fall at under one-fourth of an inch

Minding said some observers reported the ground was becoming dry and hard at the surface indicating that additional rain now would be beneficial

In a few places wheat was reported cut as early as July 3 and numerous binders were seen operating on July 4 and 5 between Columbus and Zanesville while combines were in use at Hillsboro

D-DAY FOR BEETLES

By The Associated Press

PAINESVILLE O July 9 — A "duster plane" is ready to begin spraying 2 850 acres of Lake county farmland with DDT dust in the war against Japanese beetles The area will be sprayed from the air twice 10 to 12 days apart, depending on the weather.

Boyle Back from "Saucer" Ride But Bosses Nix Swindle Sheet

(Our Hal Boyle returning from a two-day absence, insists he is the first man to come back alive from a trip on a "flying saucer." You may take his story or leave it But we are turning down his expense account for $2,850 —which is what five cents a mile comes to after 48 hours in his 1 200-mile-and-hour conveyance).

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—Safe safe after 48 hours and 57 600 miles in a flying saucer from Mars

Among now I can tell the world the full story of what happened after Bainston X-Ray O'Rune, the eight-foot, green-haired Martian pilot snagged me off a barstool and took me riding in a space ship

You will remember that Balmy got to calling him 'Balmy' — and 499 other Martian pilots became enamored of my sex appeal and invited me to visit Mars Orson Welles and eleven other difficult objects —such as a wishbone stay from Queen Victoria's corset.

Let's go look first for the lost gold mine of Magellan' said Balmy after a few warming up trips across the continent 'We can pick up Orson Welles later"

He poured in a fresh bottle of anti-gravity fuel wound up the atmosphere friction-repeller and our seventy-story-high invisible flying desk whipped over the Atlantic at 20 miles a minute

'Air Trips Boring"

"Air trips become —you miss so much of the scenery' yawned Balmy scratching at a bangtail on his three-eyed head

What would be the result if we put the Eiffel tower?' I worried

Scattered confusion" quipped Balmy Suddenly he grabbed the wheel from hands and spun it wildly

You almost ran over a jet plane you earth dope'" he said but quickly apologized after I muttered

Okay you backseat-driving mope from Mars I haven't noticed you sticking out a claw on the reins

The flying saucer handled beautifully One-eyed Balmy leaned back dreamily and began to whistle through the top of his head.

I think I'll take you up to Mars and introduce you to my sister, Violet Ray O'Rune,' he said "She's always complaining I never introduce her to any of my friends She may take a liking to you Nice girl, too."

"Green Hair"

'Does she have an eye in her forehead and green hair like you, Balmy?" I shuddered

'Sure,' he said, "do you think she's a freak like you" She's a cutie—got long eyelashes thin as a rope. She makes a good living too, pulling a boat on one of the canals Not that I think you're mercenary'

Appalled at the prospect, I began throwing bottles of anti-gravity fuel out the exhaust every time Balmy's attention wandered As we passed over Austria, the big man queried nervously

You're not cutting across Russia, are you?"

Why not?"

'You know how touchy Stalin is about passports ' said Balmy I don't want to start any intra-Universal incident Swing down to Egypt' '

Uses Invisible Cream

There we found Magellan's gold tooth in a Cairo curio shop O'Rune filched it without payment after rubbing himself with a jar of invisible cold cream

On the way back our flying saucer began to lose altitude

We're running low on fuel' said the startled green man 'I'll have to contact one of the other saucers from Mars and borrow some"

He put on the headphones of the flying craft's interstellar mental telepathy radio—which I had already thoughtfully jammed

All I get is a broadcast from the United Nations complained the Martian A man with a Russian accent keeps saying, No! No! No '

As we settled invisibly down on Brooklyn, I took over

Listen Balmy, this is my stop Here is a bottle of anti-gravity fuel I hid from you It won't take you to Mars but it will take you to Hollywood"

"Why Hollywood?' asked the stricken space traveler

"Because it's the only place where a man with green fur, claws and a mouth on top of his skull won't stand out in a crowd Tell them you're a standin for Boris Karloff But don't say you're from Mars They'll laugh at you"

Balmy's forlorn voice drifted down to me as the flying saucer spun westward

'I'll look up Orson Welles He'll recognize me"

And from here on in I'm driving nothing but five-mile-an-hour water wagons They aren't driven by green guys from Mars.

Low Rail Rates Near Application for South

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 9 — The south is about to enjoy the fruits of victory in its battle for lower railroad freight rates

The inter-state commerce commission yesterday made effective its rate equalization order reducing class' rates by 10 per cent in the south and west (except in mountain Pacific territory) and boosting them 10 per cent in the northeast The order was held up for two years while New England and other northeastern states and the eastern railroads were fighting it in the courts

Class rates apply largely to manufactured goods They constitute the country's basic rate structure but actually apply to only about four per cent of the traffic volume and six per cent of freight revenues Nevertheless the south has contended that they have kept away new business and retarded what was already there

Says Admission to U. S. Of Refugees Beneficial

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 9—Assistant Secretary of Labor Philip Hannan said today admission of 400 000 displaced Europeans into the United States would "actually increase our economic well-being '

Arguing for passage of a bill which would let 100 000 a year through immigration barriers for the next four years, Hannan declared

'The assumption of this responsibility is entirely in keeping both with our tradition of providing haven for the oppressed, and our present position of leadership in the world"

Hannah's statement was made to a house judiciary subcommittee considering the measure by Rep Stratton (R-Ill).

Arguments against the proposal, Hannan said are based on "the erroneous belief that in any given country during any particular period there are just so many jobs to be filled, and that an increase in population inevitably means that some must go jobless."

WELLSVILLE COACH TAKES CAREY POST

Mearl Atkins To Become Head Football Mentor.

Mearl Atkins, head football coach and physical education director at Wellsville High school, has resigned to accept a similar position at Carey High school, the Brush-Moore news service reported today in a dispatch from Wellsville. His resignation becomes effective at the end of the Wellsville baseball season in August. In addition to his football and basketball duties at Wellsville Atkins also was assistant basketball coach

In submitting his resignation Mr Atkins told the board one of the factors entering into his decision to make a change was the fact that he had assurance of obtaining a house in Carey

His first and only Wellsville eleven last fall won one and lost eight The Wellsville football team was placed on probation for one year by the Ohio High School Athletic association after Coach Atkins pulled his team from the field during the Mingo Junction game last Oct 24 after players of both teams had been involved in unnecessary roughness

Before coming to Wellsville Mr Atkins served almost three years as a naval officer He was head coach of all sports at Columbiana High school before entering the service.

Telegraphy Enters New 'Push Button' Era of Operations

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 — "Push-button telegraphy" previewing a new era in Western Union delivery, was placed in operation today between Philadelphia and New York.

The Western Union Telegraph Co. said the $2,000,000 push-button system, coupled with construction of a new radio beam network, ultimately will replace telegraph pole lines.

The mechanical marvel, tripling the capacity of present wire facilities, permits switching clerks to relay messages to any of 270 destinations by merely pushing a button.

Western Union officials said other circuits—only one, to New York, is now in operation—will be added by September. The complex maze of wires, button panels and lights next will be installed at Cincinnati. Then push-button sets will be constructed in Boston, Kansas City, Syracuse, St. Louis, Atlanta and Oakland, Calif.

The company said radio beam transmission, with radio towers 30 to 50 miles apart to relay super high-frequency waves, is not affected by the weather hazards that frequently cut service over telegraph poles and lines.

Herbert To Air Views On Ohio's Labor Laws

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 9—Labor laws enacted by the Ohio legislature will be the principal subject of the sixth monthly radio talk by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

In the program, to be aired over 32 stations Saturday and Sunday, the governor will discuss William J. Rogers, director of industrial relations, the new law regulating strip coal mining, the Kowalk act regulating the employment of women and minors, the plan for reactivation of the Ohio apprenticeship council, and the functions of the newly appointed minimum wage board.

The first tracks for an electric railway in New York City were laid on Fulton street in 1887.

BOY SUFFERS CUTS IN POWER SAW

Elmer Dendinger in Hospital with Hand Lacerations.

Elmer Dendinger, 8, son of Mr and Mrs. Frank Dendinger of East Fairground road, suffered severe cuts across the back of his right hand last evening when it became caught beneath an electric saw.

The accident occurred at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Predmore, who lives next door to his home. His father has been doing carpenter work there, and Elmer's older brother, Ronald, had been helping his father, turning on the saw when needed. Elmer was apparently cleaning the sawdust away from under the saw and Ronald accidentally turned on the saw.

The boy was taken to City hospital where he will remain a few days. His condition is reported to be "fairly good."

Citizens Needed in Politics, Dr. Arneson Tells Rotarians

DR. BEN A. ARNESON

Urgent need of citizens taking a more active interest in politics and government, even to the extent of personal participation, was emphasized in a talk to the Marion Rotary club, Tuesday, by Dr. Ben A. Arneson of Delaware, head of the political science department of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Speaking before the club in its weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding, Dr. Arneson took as his subject "Better Citizenship and Better Politics."

Declaring that the present threat of communism has brought a "showdown" as to whether democracy is going to work, he said that there never was a time when the American people were more definitely called to take a hand in public affairs.

He said the greatest objection to communism is that it is not democratic and predicted that democracy will win out because sensible people throughout the world will see that it is the better system.

Urges All To Vote

Centering his attention on the importance of citizen participation in politics and government, Dr. Arneson urged first of all that everybody vote in all elections, local, district and state as well as national. He quoted figures showing that a comparatively small percentage of the people go to the polls in years when there is not a presidential election.

"If there is any place a slick, selfish political boss will avoid it is a community in which a large percentage of the people vote," Dr. Arneson told his audience.

He voiced the conviction that not only should everybody vote, but that the "best people" should run for office or accept appointive offices.

"If politics is a dirty game, it is largely due to the fact that a lot of clean people stay out," he said.

Favors Government Careers

Declaring that more people should be making a career of working for the government, he commented favorably on the practice in Great Britain, where government service with opportunities for advancement induce a large percentage of the young people to make it their life's work.

"I am appalled at the results of a survey which showed that of parents questioned regarding whether they would advise their sons to enter government service, 67 per cent answered 'No'," Dr. Arneson said.

The speaker was introduced to his audience by Earl N. Hale, Y.M.C.A. secretary. Mr. Hale gave a brief review of Dr. Arneson's career, including his 28 years as a member of the O.W.U. faculty, authorship of three books on political science, and service as consultant for the federal government.

Dr. Arneson started the Civic Volunteers movement at Ohio Wesleyan in 1934, asking his students to pledge participation in public affairs upon leaving college. The Institute of Practical Politics, launched at Ohio Wesleyan this summer, is an outgrowth of the Civic Volunteers.

Don C. Burton of LaRue, working this summer as a member of The Star news staff, was a guest of the club.

Hope Abandoned For Man Lost in Cave

By The Associated Press

SHELLMOUND, Tenn., July 9—Red Cross water safety experts gave up their search early today for John T. Hurn after grappling in the underground Nickajack lake for several hours.

The state planned to wind up its part in the eight-day hunt in weird, historic Nickajack cave for the 35-year-old Nashville, Tenn., man, reported in the cave since July 1.

State Safety Commissioner Lynn Bomar had ordered the lake drained to facilitate their efforts.

A group of Tennessee National Guardsmen planned to search the cavern during the day.

Searching parties have been in the cave daily since Hollins Hurn reported his brother missing there last Tuesday.

Bucyrus Man Rides Free, Receives Fine

BUCYRUS, July 9 — Isaac Eggleston of Bucyrus must be good for the next 90 days or go to the workhouse at Columbus. This was the verdict of Mayor R. L. Hertzer Monday when Eggleston was again brought before the mayor for refusing to pay a taxi bill. He was also fined $50 and costs. The charge was brought by Jack Sniff, taxi driver, who alleged that Eggleston did not pay for a ride to the local ice house in company with 22 beer bottles. He was recently fined $100 for intoxication and was turned over to the service department to go to work, but he worked only four days, police said.

Who's Looney Now? Asks Lewis As Contract Ignores Taft Law

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9—"Who's looney now?" said John L. Lewis.

He's just signed the best contract he ever got from the coal mine owners. He didn't explain what he meant.

But what does that contract do in relation to the new labor law?

To start with, the contract pretty well ignores the national labor relations board (NLRB) the government agency which carries out the law.

James Marlow

Example: NLRB can force a boss to bargain with a union if, among other things, these are done:

The workers vote for the union to represent it and the union makes bare to NLRB, and maybe to the public, its financial set-up.

A union and a boss don't have to go to NLRB, if they don't want to. Lewis and the mine owners didn't want to.

Owners Agree

The owners agreed that Lewis' union represented the miners. So Lewis did not have to get NLRB help to prove it.

Since he didn't, he doesn't have to tell anyone how much money his union has or who in the union draws how much pay.

As for disputes which may lead to strikes while the contract is in existence, Lewis and the owners agreed to settle that subject themselves.

But suppose some hot-headed miners, without okay from Lewis, go out on a wildcat strike at some mine.

The new law says a boss can sue a union for striking like that while a contract still is in existence. Couldn't a mine owner sue Lewis' union?

Escape Clause Noted

No, according to at least one lawyer expert on the new law, because the contract says: any time miners are not "able or willing to work" there's no contract.

Since the owners signed this, they seemed to give up any right they have under the law to sue for a strike that violates a contract.

The new law says a boss or union who wants to end a contract must give the other side at least 60 days' notice.

The new contract says that if the Lewis union or the owners want to end a contract, the side wanting it must give 30 days' notice.

Is that contrary to the new law?

Here the answer seems to be wait and see what happens, when and if it happens.

If there's a threat of a big coal strike, the government can try to use the new law to delay it although it can't stop it.

Can Delay 80 Days

Under the law the President—if he thinks a big strike will hurt national health or welfare, — is supposed to be able to delay it at least 80 days, with the help of court injunctions against a strike.

But what could the government do if, after a contract ended and the courts ordered "no strike," the miners decided they individually were not "willing" to work and stayed home?

It's an old custom for Lewis' miners, without direct orders from him, to stay away from work if a contract ends and no new one is signed.

In the new contract there's also the question of the check-off system. That's where, until now, a boss could deduct workers' union dues from their paycheck and turn them over to the union.

Until now this was always done through agreement with union officials. Individual union members had no voice in this.

New Law Quoted

The new law says a boss no longer can do this without an okay from the individual worker, in writing.

The new contract says the union will provide the owners with this okay in writing from the individual union members.

Since Lewis' union is a pretty tight outfit, it's not likely any individual miner will refuse to turn over his written okay to a union official.

But the new contract says the mine owners will check off not only union dues but also initiation fees and assessments.

In explaining how a boss now can check off anything from a worker's pay, the new law mentions only dues. It says nothing of initiation fees or assessments.

So is it all right—since the law

Sulky Driver Hospitalized as Two Spills Mar Harness Racing Session

Nehlig Breaks Leg in Fourth Race; Song Girl Stake Winner

Two spills marred the eight-card program of the Little Grand Circuit races at the fairgrounds last night.

Henry Nehlig, harness driver of Janesville, Wis., driver and owner of a large stable entered at the Marion meeting, is in City hospital with a fractured leg following a spill in the fourth race last night.

Also in the eighth another spill occurred. Charles Sims, owner and driver of a stable at Waldo, and Elmer Conrad of Corydon, Ind., were both involved in an accident on the first turn of the nine-sixteenth mile jaunt.

Song Girl Wins

Song Girl, owned by the Gay Acre Farms near Wooster and driven by Johnny Caton, won both heats in the Hotel Harding stake for two-year-old trotters.

Joanis, owned by the Idle Hour Farms of Marion and ably driven by young Russel Wickersham, came from nowhere to win the 15 class pace. Supporters of the Marion horse collected $43.00 for their loyalty. Joanis failed to get a call from Judge Joe McGraw as four other horses were in the lead until the final spurt down the stretch when the Wickersham mare took the lead.

Green Township grabbed honors in the 18 class pace from Mose Hanover and a field of five other fast entries. The bay gelding is owned by the Welch Brothers of Columbus and had Walter Welch in the sulky.

Wins Maiden Trot

J.E.W. won the Maiden trot in the first race by defeating June Haver in the stretch. J.E.W. is owned by Clair Baker of Richwood and was driven by the owner.

Direct Moon won a great stretch battle from Clever Girl in the 24 class pace. Direct Moon is owned by Al Wells and had Stine in the sulky.

True Neil, brown gelding by True Volo, copped the purse in the 20 class pace in which the spill occurred that injured Nehlig. He is another horse belonging to the Welch stables of Columbus and had Walter in the cart.

As they entered the first turn, Nehlig, driving Dick Siakiyou, had horses in front of him. Dynamo Dale tripped in the hobbles and fell. Siakiyou and Nehlig crashed into the fallen horse. Nehlig was dragged 200 feet with his foot caught in the stirrups of his sulky. The leg was broken above the ankle. He was taken to the hospital in Smith's ambulance.

Traffic Heavy on Two New Tennis Courts At Vernon Heights Boulevard Playground

By GEORGE ROEST

Traffic has been heavy on the two tennis courts opened on Vernon Heights boulevard recently. Both are in excellent condition and another will be ready in a week's time.

A number of other activities have been added to make the area attractive to outdoor sport enthusiasts. These include volleyball, badminton, paddle tennis, horseshoes, archery, and a goofy golf course.

Tennis tournaments for all age groups are planned this summer. Newt Cunningham is arranging some inter-city matches with nearby towns.

Supervisors Provided

Fred Ruhl will be at the courts Tuesdays and Thursdays to instruct and supervise boys' activities and Miss Phyllis Badgely will supervise girls on Fridays.

Courts are open to all "Y" members each day. Preference is given to Gra-Y boys in the mornings from 8:30 to 12 and junior high and high school boys and girls are given priority in the afternoons until 4:30.

After that, adults and working students will get the nod until the 7 p. m. closing time.

Other activities will be open to all age groups at all times.

tion periods at the tennis courts, knowing and carrying out the

The Y.M.C.A.'s summer program also includes an achievement program for boys. In the form of a contest, the winner will be awarded a bicycle by the Vance Sporting Goods store.

Points can be won by doing a number of things designated by the Y.M.C.A.

Points are given for attending Sunday school, swimming achievements, attendance at the instructions of good health, and for various other things.

Records are being kept on entry blanks at the Y.M.C.A. Today is the first day of the contest. Blanks can be obtained at Vance Sporting Goods and after being filled out should be taken to the Y.

Wonders What Makes American So Tough After 10th All-Star Licking.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 9 — The National league, whipped in the 14th All-Star major league game, still wondered what makes the American league so tough.

Jubilant Joe Cronin, who directed the American leaguers to a 2-1 triumph for their 10th victory against only four defeats before 41,123 at Wrigley Field yesterday, could point to several reasons.

One might be the hell-bent-for-election base-running of Cronin's own Boston second-sacker, Bobby Doerr, who scored the decisive run in the seventh.

Another was the pinch-hitters used by the American league. Ancient Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox, scored the first junior circuit run in the sixth inning, and Washington's Stan Spence, rammed a single to score Doerr from third in the seventh frame.

One Big Moment

The National leaguers had only one big moment and that was the home run shot by big Johnny Mize of the New York Giants in the fourth inning which gave Eddie Dyers' outclassed boys their lone marker and a short-lived 1-0 lead.

George Munger of the St. Louis Cardinals and Ralph Branca of the Brooklyn Dodgers were the only National leaguers who failed to see action.

The winning pitcher was rookie Frank Shea of the Yankees, who pitched the middle three innings and was touched for three hits, including Mize's 380-foot homer into the right field bleachers.

The loser was Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves, who was in only for the seventh inning one-man-show by Doerr. He contributed heavily to his own downfall by pegging wildly to second on an attempt to pick off Doerr, after Doerr had stolen second by a mile off catcher Bruce Edwards of Brooklyn.

The real pitching skill was exhibited in the first three innings when lefty Hal Newhouser of Detroit and Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell hooked up in a nifty duel in which each allowed only one hit.

After Newhouser, came Shea, Walt Masterson of Washington and Fireman Joe Page of the New York Yankees, who was called upon to dispose of the two big National leaguers, Mize and Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals in the eighth inning. Page was nicked by Mize for a single, but he forced Slaughter to bounce out to end the eighth with National leaguers on third and first.

The National league mound parade included Harry (The Cat) Brecheen of the Cardinals, Sain and Warren Spahn of the Braves.

Cronin had five "Iron-Man" performers, including Terrible Teddy Williams of Boston, whose single in the sixth moved Appling from first to third and enabled him to score on a subsequent doubleplay; Joe Di Maggio of the Yanks; Lou Boudreau of the Indians; George McQuinn, Yankee first baseman; and catcher Buddy Rosar, Philadelphia's only member of the American squad.

Slaughter was the only National leaguer to go the route.

The sixth largest crowd in the game's history, contributed a record net take of $105,314.90 most of which is earmarked for the players' pension fund.

Wrestles Thursday at Armory

In one of the main events Thursday night at the Marion Armory Billy Fox, the Cleveland ex-marine will meet Gordon Hessell. These two were the winners of last week's matches. It will be over the 90 minute route and should be one of the fastest, cleanest matches seen at the Armory in many a moon.

The other 90 minute match will be just the opposite and will just suit the fans who like their wrestling on the more rugged side for it's a return match between Dutch Schultz and Rufus Jones. These two met several weeks ago and Schultz won by a close margin. Since then the colored boy has been after a return.

The opening prelim at 8:30 will be a tag team match between local boys. Bill Glenn and Tom Zwolla will team up against the team of Homer Carr and Howard Glenn. Call Markert and Lewis for your best ringside seats.—Adv.

Cubs Blow Lead As Dodgers Win, 6-3

Special to The Star

ZANESVILLE, July 9—The Marion Cubs lost their opening thrust at league-leading Zanesville in the "Bums'" park last night, 6-3, victims of a Zanesville uprising in the eighth.

The Cubs were leading with two out in that inning, 3-0, as Jim Sabens had doled out only three singles to the Dodgers up to that point. No Zanesville runner had reached second until the fatal eighth.

Three walks, two errors by Bobzean and four singles gave Zanesville six runs and the ball game.

The Cubs tallied in the fourth when Bobzean walked, Maxhimer singled and, when the outfielder booted the ball, Bobzean scored. In the sixth the Cubs scored another run on Shuford's double and Nelson's single. In the eighth the Cubs made it 3-0.

Bobzean again walked and was forced by Maxhimer, but Max took second when Gene made a perfect take out of Mikesell at second causing the little shortstop to throw wildly to first. Burdrink was passed purposely and after Shuford popped out Nelson again came through with a single that scored Maxhimer.

Sandy Lambert who hurled the first eight innings for the Dodgers got credit for the big sixth and became the winner when he went out for a pinch hitter in the ninth.

The two clubs play again tonight with Bill Rosin slated to pitch for the Cubs.

Joe Nuxhall Loses First OSL Game This Year

By The Associated Press

At Dayton last night, Muncie's Joe Nuxhall, the Hamilton, O., star, dropped his first Ohio State league decision, 8-4. Nuxhall issued eight walks in 3 2-3 innings and Dayton got seven more from two Packer relefers. The Indians hit safely only five times in avenging Nuxhall's one-hit victory when he debuted last week.

Richmond's Kenny St. Pierre lost his third tilt of the season after winning 10 when unearned runs from five errors helped Springfield to a 3-2 triumph.

Last place Lima surprised Newark's Browns, 8-7, in 11 innings after wiping out a 6-0 deficit in the eighth and ninth.

Schlairet Looms As New Softball Flag Contender

A timely blow by Bobby Virden last night made Schlairet Transfer, defending city softball champ, the favorite to win the second round Commercial league championship.

Virden drove Dillion and Holliday across the plate in the seventh inning to give Schlairet a 2-1 victory over Moose Lodge, undefeated champ of the first round.

The other seven teams in the loop aren't to be counted out, however, because this was a first game in the second round, but Moose was the only club that defeated the Transfers in the first.

Other teams opening their bid for second round honors with victories were Tong Implement and Co. M. McAllister and Standard Oil tied.

Two runs in the fifth broke a deadlock as Tong set American Legion down 6-4. Tong pitcher Knelber led the attack with three hits in four tries, but Jones of the losers was tops at the plate getting three for three.

Co. M took DeMolay handily, 9-3, getting a three-run lead in the first and never trailing. V. Crabtree homered for the victors and Edgington got three safeties.

McAllister rallied with five runs in the sixth to gain an 8-8 tie with Standard Oil in a game halted after seven innings because of darkness. Round trip clouters

FORMER MINER LOOP BOSS BRAMHAM DIES

By The Associated Press

DURHAM, N. C., July 9—William Gibbons Bramham, who ruled minor league baseball for 14 years, died in a Durham hospital yesterday after a brief illness. He would have been 73 next Sunday.

Funeral services will be here tomorrow.

Never a player but famous as the man to head four leagues at the same time, Bramham was elected to the presidency of all the minor loops—the National association—in December, 1932.

He retired from this post last December at the minor leagues meeting in Los Angeles. He was succeeded by George M. Trautman, then general manager of the Detroit Tigers.

At his bedside were his wife and son, Winfrey P. Braham, assistant secretary-treasurer of the Cincinnati Reds. The former minor league head was stricken at his home July 4 but his condition had not been regarded as serious until Monday.

Shriners Launch Drive To Sell 4,000 Ducats To Benefit Game

A drive to sell 4,000 tickets to the annual Shrine benefit game a week from Saturday (July 19) at Lincoln park was launched this week by the Marion Shriners.

The Cubs will play host to Springfield in a regular Ohio State loop contest that night.

Proceeds from the ticket sales will go to the Aladdin Crippled Children's Hospital association in Columbus. It is a Shrine hospital.

Tickets can be obtained from all Shriners and at Wiant's Book store, Markert and Lewis Clothing store, Anson Pickerel Clothing store, and Moskins Clothing store.

A souvenir program and scorecard will be given to all persons attending. Containing about 40 pages, it will give some history of the Shrine club and the work being done for unfortunate children.

Other features of the program are the appearance of the Shrine band from Columbus and the crack marching patrol from the Aladdin Temple club, also of Columbus. They will participate in a parade through the center of Marion starting at 4:30 p. m. and also will entertain at the field.

A fireworks display will be staged at the park.

Smitty's have met Baldridge once this season handing them a 6-2 beating. This will be their first start against the Mansfield Cabs. Kenny Windsor, hurler for Smitty last year against the State penitentiary, will be on the mound for Mansfield.

SCATTERED STOCKS OFFER RESISTANCE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 9—Scattered stocks managed to edge forward today although light selling restrained many leaders.

Nine successive rising sessions to a high since early last March caused many customers to cash profits on the thought that at least a technical correction of the lengthy swing was a likelihood even if a real bull market is under way.

In the resistant area most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Deere, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Philip Morris, J. C. Penney, Amerada and Norfolk and Western. Occasional losers included Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Caterpillar Tractor, Anaconda, American Smelting, Air Reduction, General Electric, North American, Pennsylvania Railroad and Northern Pacific.

Another Report From Our Buyers:
Grand Rapids, Michigan,
July 8, 1947.
Dear Folks.
Worked the whole day buying upholstered furniture. Swenson's have brought out the sweetest line of sectional sofas we've seen anywhere. Four styles. A curve, a conventional, a modern and a period adaptation. The covers have certainly improved in attractiveness, as well as quality. If we can display them in the new store as well as they are here, we're bound to create a lot of buyer interest. It's sure a swell time to have to buy a whole new stock of furniture. Are the lathers finished?

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I PUT out a protesting hand, as Dicky started for his bathroom with a hurried adjuration to me to wait until he had cleaned up a bit.

"Not so fast," I said. "You are not needed now, and Mary is no worse. She's simply under so terrific a nervous tension over Harriet's expected message that Katharine and I are nearly at the end of our respective ropes."

Then I told him quickly of Dr. Twitchell's plan to put her to sleep as soon as Noel had left; of his giving her something soothing but not sleep-inducing, and of his direction that she might do anything she wished until her bedtime.

"Of course she chose working on her lines in your play," he said, and I told him of Dr. Twitchell's trick in demanding the lines, of Mary's perfect rendition of them and of the physician's assurance to her that her most important hurdle had been passed.

"Good for the old doc!" he approved. "He sure played a good hand that time. But will he let her work all the afternoon on her lines? I should think that would be risky."

"Indeed she won't be working all the afternoon," I said. "And that's where you come in."

He looked at me alertly.

"Just what parlor tricks am I supposed to exhibit?" he asked. "And—it's disloyal to poor Mary to ask, I suppose—but how much time will I have to put in?"

"That is something I cannot tell you—about the time, I mean," I said. "The parlor trick is simply bridge."

"Bridge!" he echoed in dismay. "My sainted great-aunt's third husband! That will be interminable! Well, I can work all night, I suppose. Katharine slept last night. Will she and you be able to spell each other, with perhaps some assistance from Olga or Olina? If so, and I can be free tonight, I can give all my time to Mary this afternoon."

"I'm sure you won't have to give all your time," I told him. "The idea is to keep her so busy that she won't have time to brood."

Will Have Respites

"Mary will work on her lines until she gets tired," I went on. "Then you, Katharine, Mary and I will start a bridge game. But you may be sure that Mary will want to get back to her studying as soon as possible. She is anxious to study now. Katharine arranged things so that I could slip up and warn you of what was brewing."

"That was thoughtful," he commented absently. "But tell me, whose brilliant brain wave was this bridge thing? The old doc's?"

"No, it came from Mary herself," I told him. "Dr. Twitchell was asking her what she would like to do beside study, and she said she wouldn't mind a bridge game only there wasn't a fourth hand. I spoke of you at once, although I know I shouldn't."

"You don't know anything of the sort," my husband said. "You know that everything, even getting out work, goes by the board until Mary is over this hurdle. Just give me five minutes' notice. Can you do that?"

"More, if you want it," I told him.

"No, five will do. Are you going?" as I edged toward the door. "Well, thinks for giving me warning. So long!"

Back at Work

He was back at work before I had closed the door of his penthouse studio, and I hurried down to our living apartment.

I found Mary sitting on the edge of her chair, and Katharine's eyes warned me that she was as tense as the proverbial fiddle-string.

"Can we get to work right away?" she asked, as soon as I came through the door.

"I don't see why not," I answered equably, going to my desk and taking from it the first act of my play.

"I won't need to ask you to repeat the two lines you memorized yesterday," I said smiling.

"No, the old Doc attended to that little chore. But did he knock me for a goal for a second! Well, thanks be to Brahma, I came through it. Now let's get our teeth into the next ones."

Missionary to Africa Grand Prairie Speaker

Mrs. Anna Lewis of Marion, a missionary to Africa, was guest speaker at a meeting July 2 of Grand Prairie Missionary society held at the home of Mrs. Virginia Foos of near Brush Ridge. She cited many of her experiences and reminded members that help was still vitally needed. Mrs. Lewis also sang several hymns.

Members answered the roll call by naming a Christian center. Mrs. Nellie Bibler led devotions. Mrs. Cyril Bryant reported the new books purchased at Granville for the society were now available as were books for the children and young people's groups. Mrs. Chester Lust displayed a vase and belt buckle made from a coconut shell which had been sent to her by a Philippine high school girl.

Mrs. S. H. Foos and Mrs. Elmer Myers were named prayer partners for July. The gift box opening was conducted by Mrs. Irma Myers. A guest speaker and motion picture film on Latin America will be included on the program for the next meeting to be held with Richard and Hilda Brooks.
